POUTUARONGO (INSIDE AT BACK OF WHARE)

MAUI Although Maui was eventually overcome by Hinenuitepo in his bid for immortality for mankind, Maui, as depicted here in the form of a hook, is remembered for his fishing up Te Ika a Maui which was peopled by successive migrations of tupuna from Hawaiki.
KUPE As the central tipuna of Papauma, Kupe is also depicted on the poutuarongo and is remembered as one of the great Hawaiki travellers who dared to traverse the oceans from his Hawaiki homeland to Te Ika a Maui and his legacy, the name Aotearoa given by his wife, was to become the homeland for other great travellers such as Toi Te Huatahi, Whatonga, Turi, Tamatea Mai Tawhiti and for tupuna such as Hotuwaiapara and Reretua.

POUTAHU (INSIDE AT FRONT OF WHARE)

TANE The poutahu is Tane. It was Tane who brought enlightenment to the world following his great feat of ascension to Te Toi o nga Rangi to obtain the 3 baskets of knowledge and the 2 stones with which he returned to this world.

AMO

HOTUWAIAPARA The top carved figure, she is the grand-daughter of Toi te Huatahi, and, the first wife of Whatonga of the Kuruhauupo waka. Their son TARA is the carved figure beneath Hotuwaiapara. Tara is the eponymous tipuna of the Ngai Tara.

RERETUA This famous tipuna is the great-grand daughter of Turi of the Aotea waka, and, the second wife of Whatonga. Their grandson RANGITANE is the carved figure beneath Reretua and he is the eponymous tipuna of the Rangitane iwi.
